Editorial Team

BeSingular, an EdTech company providing next generation with necessary skills to create a real, responsible impact by learning future technologies is all set to launch ZAPLearn, an interactive way to enroll for 1-day specialized courses on account of Children's day. With ZAPLearn, BeSingular aims at helping as many children as possible by providing the course at free of cost. The courses will range from Artificial Intelligence (AI), Game Design, Python to App Development for a duration as low as 120 minutes a session. This gives an opportunity to children to experience cutting edge technologies so that they develop a better understanding of it.

BeSingular has been constantly transforming the education space with innovative ideas. It has successfully set up a globally curated curriculum that focuses on modern-day technologies such as Artificial Intelligence (AI), Robotics, Game Design, Internet of Things (IoT), Drones, 3D printing, iOS App Development, Augmented & Virtual Reality (AR/VR).

"The kind of skills required for employment today are not commonly taught in our traditionally-setup classrooms. Hence, we offer children the possibility to learn cutting-edge technology and make them future-ready. With our superfast 1-day specialized courses, we aim at guiding the younger ones well", said Nitesh Jain, Founder, BeSingular.

The ZAPLearn courses are scheduled for children aged between 9 years to 18 years, to help them understand the demands of the future. This is BeSingular's one of many initiatives to make critical future skills readily available for any child to seize.
